Dear Mike:

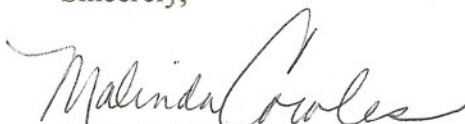

I felt compelled to share my opinions of your recent presentations at IUP (Indiana University of PA). I found your ability to build consensus among the audience about the importance of consent for sexual activity to be one of the best ways to educate students about sexual assault. Your content was concise, clear, and motivated the audience to take action. So often sexual assault educational programs leave participants wondering what they can do. Men have shared that they often feel blamed and guilty when participating in these programs. This is certainly a far stretch from the energized audiences I witnessed at your programs. The audiences were left with clear ways they can prevent sexual assault.

I think that the most telling indicator of the success of your program was demonstrated through students' purchase of your materials and books. That's really motivated participants!

If I can ever serve as a reference for your program, please feel free to contact me. I have had at least a dozen sexual violence educators visit our campus. I can honestly say your program was the best I've sponsored for an audience of college students.

Thank you for doing such wonderful work and making a difference on my campus.

Sincerely,

Malinda Cowles
