

KENT SCHOOL

February 2004

Dear Fellow Educator:

The Kent School had the opportunity to have Mike Domitrz come on campus and speak to our student body in February, 2004. As the Health Program Coordinator at the Kent School, a co-educational boarding school with five-hundred and fifty students in Connecticut, I have written this letter to share with you the impact Mr. Domitrz had on our students.

From the start of his performance, Mike had the students' attention, and also had them laughing out loud. They quickly warmed up to his open, charismatic, self-deprecating style and were clearly riveted. He was able to earn their trust and peak their interest with his stories.

One of the best parts about Mike's talk was the way he involved the students. They responded out loud to his prompts and questions, and there were many different student volunteers on the stage throughout the show.

Mike's message was about communication in the relationship arena, and his tagline is "Can I Kiss You?" After his performance, the students talked for days about it, and many students sought the counsel of faculty and friends to talk about issues his comments raised.

I sincerely recommend Mike to any school looking for a fun and fresh way to educate their students about dating and relationship dynamics, sexual assault, and open minds.

Please feel free to contact me at (860) 927-4485 for more information.
